

From obs.: "New snow from 24 hours ago blew around the ridge tops from 11pm last night until 7am this morning ~30mph. This soft 4 finger slab was about 6"-7" deep and broke on a convex roll.... We were assessing the terrain carefully and expected this result." Photo: R. Christian-Frederick

Advisory Region
Northern Madison
Longitude
-111.39W

Latitude

45.34N

Avalanche Details: Small intentionally triggered wind slab in Beehive Basin

Northern Madison, 2019-12-01