

Sheep Mountain avalanche from few days ago

Date

Tue, 03/05/2024 - 17:20

Activity

Snowmobiling

While riding north of Cooke City today we observed a large debris pile southern end of Sheep Mountain. SE facing at ~9700'. With poor visibility, I couldn't see a crown but much of the path had been filled in by wind and the debris was covered with fresh snow, making it at least a few days old. This slope was remotely triggered earlier this year in January by riders from the bottom of the slope.

Region

Cooke City

Location (from list)

Sheep Mountain

Observer Name

Zach Peterson