

This slab avalanche occurred on the east face of Fan Mountain near Big Sky. The larger avalanche was likely triggered by a smaller slab that pulled out in the rocks above. As temperatures remain above freezing, this type of activity will become more common in the mountains across our advisory area. Photo GNFAC

Advisory Region
Northern Madison

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Advisory for Sun Apr 10, 2016

Northern Madison, 2016-04-09